

Your Accountant is a Valuable Advisor

an Interview with Jan-Erik Berg

(June 2009, Appendix to Finansavisen)

- XLEDGER enables accounting firms to provide their services more efficiently by matching their acumen with the financial tools in XLEDGER.NET. These partnerships benefit both the client and the accountant with new shared business insight. The value of the accountant is greatly enhanced with the automated processes and tools in XLEDGER.NET, explains Jan-Erik Berg, the XLEDGER sales and marketing director.

Detailed overview made easy

-Many accountants waste their time with tedious and repetitive data-entry tasks to organize and update company information. With XLEDGER.NET, company financial health and performance indicators are easily available in many varieties, enabling quick, yet meticulous analysis. Year to date and current period reports are always up-to-date, displaying variance from budgets. Accountants now have a better foundation for analyzing the current situation and giving sound advice.

The Best of Both Worlds

Challenged with the responsibility of managing their businesses and complying with increased government regulation, company leaders need a flexible ERP solution and competent accountants. XLEDGER offers the market the best of both worlds; the clients manage their own ERP system, and external accountants can share the same information. Many forward thinking accounting firms are combing XLEDGER.NET with their expertise in laws and regulations, to help their clients focus on their core business.

After testing this partnership model for a few years, we can confidently conclude that the market confirms its value and effectiveness.

Jan-Erik Berg, Indirect Sales Director of XLEDGER